WHEREAS, adult education programs in California have provided Californians the opportunity to study and train for a better life and better income for over 150 years;

WHEREAS, adult education helps parents help their children by offering ESL classes which allows parents to understand their children's homework and communicate with their children's teachers and school;

WHEREAS, adult education programs were deeply cut or eliminated during the recession. Current adult ed funding is at 66% of its pre-recession level from approximately $750 million pre-recession to currently $500 million in the governor's budget;
