

Superintendent's Report USD 12/13/19

In the month of November, Lia and I went to the LCAP training down in Sacramento. The state has not developed a full template yet so we need to go again in January. I have started to work on goals for our new LCAP.

I also taught a CPI course to the entire Diamond Valley staff. 8 staff members took the full course and earned a CPI certificate.

This week I am at the CSBA conference in San Diego I have attended sessions about LCAP, a very interesting session on Native American students and suspension/expulsion rates for native students. I will be trying to team up with the presenters to develop programs to help our Native American students in our school setting. Another session I went to discussed how to develop STEAM programs in small rural districts.

Saturday through Tuesday I will be attending the Native Impact Aid conference in Las Vegas. The first two days will be on the nuts and bolts of impact aid applications and its requirements. The last two days will focus on how to effectively use impact aid for students.

I am looking forward to the ELC and Diamond Valley holiday celebrations for students. I will be dressed as Santa and handing out candy at the ELC program on the 19th. Currently we are not sure if I will be in my mascot outfit or dressed as Santa for the Diamond Valley holiday carnival. On December 20th I will be at Bear Valley all day as they will be having their Winter Fest at 5 o'clock that evening. The Winter Fest we will have a potluck and students will have a short musical presentation.
