CLOSURE OF MARIN COUNTY SCHOOLS FOR DECEMBER 11, 2014

Mary Jane Burke, Marin County Superintendent of Schools, in consultation with school districts and local authorities, has confirmed that Marin County schools will close tomorrow, Thursday, December 11, 2014 in view of the storm scheduled to hit the North Bay. A decision about Friday, December 12, is will be made pending additional information and an assessment of storm impacts. The National Weather Service has issued a Hazardous Weather Condition Notice indicating heavy rains and a flash flood watch between Thursday morning and into Friday. Additionally, a High Wind Warning is in effect from Wednesday evening until Thursday evening for what is being called the "Decade Storm" due to the severity of the storm occurring only once every ten years.

Burke said, "This decision has been by each district at the local level as a result of consulting with our partners at the Marin County Emergency Operations Center, local law enforcement, fire departments, and the leadership of Marin's schools. Our schools are very interconnected with family members attending different districts and teachers and school staff serving in one district while their children attend schools in other local districts. I am proud that the schools of our community have put the safety of our students and staff first and have collectively come to the conclusion that it was in everyone's best interest to close schools".

The safety of students and staff is our highest priority and there is concern that students and families not be on the roads, especially during periods of projected heavy rains and winds. Many of Marin's teachers and support staff live out of county and may not be able to come to work. Transportation of students which involves several districts, as well as public transportation, are likely to be impacted by storm and road conditions. There is also a high probability that power to some schools may be interrupted thus affecting lighting, heating, use of classroom technology and the preparation of food for students.

The Marin County Office of Education will open its Emergency Operations Center with staff on duty at 4:30 a.m. to coordinate information about the status of public and private schools and other aspects of the emergency throughout the duration. Staff can be reached at 415-499-5801 or at 415-472-5749. We will be communicating with the media and issuing bulletins as needed. Updated information, including a list of school closures, will also be posted at www.marinschools.org. Please call or email if you have any questions.
