

Cooperative Adventures and Coleman, Scope of work 2018-2019

Work	Cost	Total
17 total days in classrooms (split into ½ days)	$600/day	$10,200
Details: Mr. Nettell works in each classroom for ½ a day in the fall and again in the spring. He meets with the teacher and principal before the date to ensure he has the 'lay of the land' in each classroom, including student profiles, challenges and classroom strengths. Students work through a series of challenges to build trust. After this, the class will work through common understandings, expectations and a common school language. This work will deepen the Coleman school culture at the student level, creating a space that is safe, focused and ready for high levels of learning. Upon return in the spring, students will revisit some of the challenges and reflect upon the school culture they have been working through, as well as the growth they have made in their classroom and on a personal level.
Staff Professional Development (three hours)	Teacher Hourly	$2800
Details: Mr. Nettell will work with staff to deepen commitment to students, staff and mission. His work will also support strong teams, collaboration and cooperation. Additionally, Mr. Nettell and the Coleman staff will be working to develop a common language for how we talk with children at various times of the day and in various locations. For example, how should a child expect to be greeted when arriving at school? How should a child expect to be greeted when there has been a mistake made on the playground? Developing this common language will support students as they progress through the years, and it will also support staff as they each work with students throughout the year.
Parent Education (one hour + prep)	$1000	$1000
Details: Mr. Nettell will work with families to elaborate on what is happening in the classroom and why. He will be sharing a few challenges with the families, too. Furthermore, Mr. Nettell and Mr. Taylor will be sharing more about the common school language that will be used at Coleman and how families will be able to harness this work and share the language at school and at home.
