Scope of Services:

At the heart of YouThrive community—based activities is our Pro-Active Anger Management program, a 10-session curriculum which is oriented around an effective research-based curriculum called Aggression Replacement Training (ART). These YouThrive youth groups focus on helping youth understand the consequences of gang life and also focus on reducing aggressive behavior, increasing anger management skills, and improving social competency and moral reasoning. We will incorporate specific topics from our evidence based Thinking For a Change (T4C) Life Skills curriculum. T4C incorporates research from cognitive restructuring theory, social skills development, and the learning and use of problem solving skills. The restorative services are based in part on the work of Ted Wachtel, founder of the International Institute for Restorative Practices (IIRP). YouThrive staff is trained to utilize restorative justice practices and offer to facilitate conflict resolution conferencing in which everyone impacted by wrongdoing can share how they have been affected and have a say in how to repair the harm. This formal process is used to address incidents where harm has occurred and fosters more positive outcomes than mere punishment in education, criminal justice, youth work, organizational and other settings.

Example of Specific topics and goals of the curriculum include:

- 1) Anger Management: Develop a sense of self-understanding and broader awareness of the consequences of one's reactivity; develop personal awareness and self-regulation; develop an awareness of how one affects the world around them
- 2) Listening, Communication and Resolution: Develop these skills as interpersonal resources and offer alternatives to current styles of communication to aide in interpersonal relationships
- 3) Exploring Empathy; examining short and long term consequences of anger; and internal and external costs of expression of anger
- 4) Responding to Pressures by identifying and using one's moral compass; valuing your own opinion to break negative social patterns
- 5) Self-Esteem: Develop an internal sense of importance in the world and develop personal awareness and strength to manage one's inner critic

- 6) Violence and Substance Abuse: Develop an awareness of drugs and drug use associated with pop culture; develop an awareness of different forms of violence and abuse to help set suitable boundaries with peers, parents and community members
- 7) Healthy Relationships: Offer alternatives to negative norms; broaden gender paradigms; and stimulate the exploration of healthy alternatives; sex education
- 8) Toolbox for Success: Offer a visual of what the youth has to offer the community and offer resources for youth to continue their growth through a youth led project

YouThrive also uses the research-based survey developed by the Search Institute to measure improvement in developmental assets, which include: commitment to learning, positive values, social competencies, and positive identity. These assets aid in future success and positive life functioning. Success of the participants in the program is also measured by the schools they attend, specifically students' grades, attendance, and number of disciplinary referrals. In addition, we conduct client satisfaction surveys to ensure we are delivering quality services.

Outcomes:

YouThrive expectations are that by the end of the fall 2018 and spring 2019 workshops, our clients will show:

- A decrease in unexcused class attendance
- A decrease in disciplinary referrals
- An improvement in grade point average
- Report satisfaction with services, as measured by SHS client satisfaction survey.
